

Alison Larkin is a bestselling author, comedienne, and keynote speaker. She currently lives 25 miles outside New York City, with one tall husband, two small children and one medium-sized laptop computer, on which she completed the first of what she hopes will be many novels.

Springing from her internationally acclaimed one woman show, in her hilarious, poignant first novel The English American, Alison Larkin draws further from her experiences as an adopted English woman who finds her birth parents-- and a new homeland—in the United States and weaves them into a compulsively readable work of fiction. A Vogue most powerful book of the season, "The English American" is receiving rave reviews everywhere and has just been optioned by ABC TV for a 1/2 hour series! Alison is currently at work on her 2nd novel. Find out more about Alison Larkin at <http://www.alisonlarkin.com>
