Mental health professionals across the USA are endorsing NTI.

See what they’re saying....

"I just finished and these were amazing training sessions! I wish they had been available when I adopted and when I was a new clinician. I could’ve saved myself a lot of heartache if I’d known this information sooner. Thanks for providing it now because it is awesome!"

Mental Health Therapist, MN

I have been able to use the knowledge and understanding I gained from this training in almost every area of my job!
“My team felt the NTI training is very beneficial and applicable to their jobs. It was evident that the material was evidenced and research based with practical interventions that can be implemented. The lessons were relevant to the work we do in foster care and gave us valuable resources to better our practice. The self-assessments/evaluations were great for personal development to identify areas we need to target and expand on in our practice. The modules addressed multiple learning styles, which was helpful to ensure each staff received the information in the best way for them.”

- Clinical Supervisor

“The value of NTI to clinicians is having a comprehensive training and body of knowledge all in one place. I've never seen anything like it! There are very few therapists who have this in-depth training. A lot of clinicians learn about practice through books, but this training stands apart because it adds first person perspectives from adoptive persons, adoptive parents, and many resources. Understanding beneath the adoptive child's behavior and the function of it, and knowing how to help the parents takes a high skill level from the clinician. This training really helps!”

- Clinician and Adoptive Parent

“For a variety of reasons, mental health professionals typically do not receive the training required to fill adoption-related counseling needs and, too often, either do not fully understand why such training is necessary or mistakenly believe the knowledge they already have is sufficient. I recommend NTI Training to effectively bolster the journey to adoption competency.”

- Dr. David Brodzinsky, Ph.D. Psychologist & Author

“The NTI training will help me with working with the youth in helping them to understand why they are in full guardianship. Listening and being empathetic with the children and families has become easier. I feel more confident explaining the causes of behaviors to family/foster family and other professionals.”

- Child/Adolescent Therapist
“I believe NTI is critically needed education for pre-adoptive parents or post adoption families about how trauma and losses impact a child. It reinforces the need for therapy at the various stages of the child’s development after the adoption.”

- Child Welfare Social Worker

“Adoption competence has been a rare-find among providers. Wide use of the NTI mental health curriculum will touch thousands of lives and help reduce unnecessary emotional pain that can grow and fester when the underlying issues are missed or ignored.”

- Terry Cross, Founder and Senior Advisor, National Indian Child Welfare Association

“NTI training strengthened me and helped me look through a trauma and attachment informed, developmental lens and also supporting families through a family systems and strengths based approach. It reinforced collaborating with the workers and services around a youth and family. It gave me more tools to support common challenges with adoption related grief and loss, identity and behavioral challenges and resources to help educate/support parents with understanding complex developmental trauma.”

- Permanency Worker

“NTI is the most concise training. It gets to the heart of the work, and really gives hands on tools for staff to use in supporting children and families. I keep sharing information with the rest of the executive team regarding the training, and am excited for our entire system to get this information as soon as possible!”
